Kite Material May Be Dangerous

Some light weight space-age materials can make attractive, but potentially dangerous components for kites, Pacific Gas and Electric Company and spokesmen for the Little People Kites of San Francisco warned recently.

A striking new kite material, aluminized Mylar, a tough polyester with a mirror-like coating of aluminum or gold, has been found in some instances to be electrically conductive, and extremely dangerous, according to Andy Anderson and Richard Horst, partners in the Little People Kite venture. Mylar without a metallic coating is a safe kite material, they said.

Their warning was made following extensive laboratory testing at PG&E's Department of Engineering Research in San Ramon.

With PG&E, Anderson and Horst urged all kite fliers to refrain from using anything metallic, or resembling metal in the construction of kites.

They urged kite fliers to follow six basic rules for safe kite flying;

*Always fly kites far from power lines.

*Always use dry string, wood and paper in your kite. Never use metal, wire, metallic string, or metallic material.

*Don't fly kites in the rain.

*Don't cross streets or highways when kite-flying.

*Always fly kites far from television or radio antennas.

*Always call your power company if a kite gets snagged in a power line.

ROLE OF ARMY WOMEN CHANGING

Many veterans may remember the Women's Army Corps as a glorified steno pool. That's not the case in TODAY'S ARMY. Members of the recently instituted American WAC Company are training to be Drafting Specialists, Auto-Repair Technicians, Translators, Offset Press-Operators, Traffic Analysts and other skilled specialists. The American WAC Company is one of nine companies in the 17th WAC Battalion being trained at the WAC Basic Training Center at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. Its membership was drawn from each of the 50 states including a 25-member Northern New England platoon and representatives from the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico. It is the first company in the Women's Army Corps to be trained at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina. Previously all WAC's received their basic training at Fort McClellan, Alabama. The expansion of the Corps from 38,000 to 50,000 members necessitated establishing a new battalion at Ft. Jackson Training Center.

Although there is a definite need for clerk typists in TODAY'S ARMY, the American WAC Company exemplifies the wide range of job opportunities available to young women in TODAY'S ARMY.

For further information on the Women's Army Corps give us a call at 372-4742.

Although we didn't have any girls sign up this past week, we did have a total of seven peninsulans volunteer for duty in TODAY'S ARMY. Among them we had a couple take advantage of our Hawaii option that we discussed in last week's column.

The most recent enlistees include Robert Evans of Monterey and he will be assigned to Key West, Florida as a Unit Clerk in the Air Defense Command. Woody Bowers of Marina will be a Military Policeman at Ft. Ord after training. Daniel Woldridge and Peter Tualuupua, both of Ft. Ord, are on their way to Hawaii as Auto Mechanics. Randy Coonce also of Ft. Ord will be trained as a Pole Lineman.

Seaside Volunteers include Darrell Tenette, Robert Cook and Wendell Scott. All enlisted for a specific option which includes training or job location. The guarantee was made to them after all enlistment qualifications were met. So, if you feel that you would be interested and want to know more about our rograms call us or stop by 431 Webster St. in Monterey.

TILL NEXT WEEK: "ALOHA".

MPC Instructors Get NEH Grants

Two Monterey Peninsula College instructors have received grants for special studies from the National Endowment for the Humanities totaling $20,000. This brings to $50,000 the three NEH grants received for the 1974-75 academic school year.

Dr. Idelle D. Sullens, a humanities instructor at the college since 1958, received a $10,000 grant which will help her complete a critical edition of the works of Robert Mannyng of Brunne's "Handlung Synne," written in 1303 and the "Chronicle" written in 1338.

Rod Holmgren, former humanities division chairman, received a $10,000 grant to examine the relationships between the foundations of the Libertarian press in the Revolutionary Wat and the operations of the press today.

Both Dr. Sullens and Holmgren will be on sabbatical leaves from their teaching assignments next year to complete theri fellowship projects.

In announcing te latest grants, MPC President George J. Faul, said that it is unusual that two NEH Fellowships be granted to a single institution. The two grants come on the heels of a $30,000 NEH grant announced last week which will see the development an dadoption of the General Education Train," or GENTRAIN as it is being called, which is an interdisciplinary general education program in western civilizations. That program starts in September.

Mannyng's "Handlyng Synne" was the subject of Dr. Sullens' doctoral dissertation at Stanford University in 1959. The complete works have never been published together, with comparative readings from the various extant manuscripts. The NEH grant was awarded to support the necessary research and study of manuscripts at libraries in England, and those now located in the Folger Library in Washington, D.C. and at the Yale University Library.

Dr. Sullens' most recent publication , with co-editors Raymond Fabrizio and Edith Karras, who are also MPC instructors, was "The Inquiring Reader." She is also the author of "Pinciples of Grammar", published in 1966 and "The Whole Idea Catalog," published in 1971.

The purpose of Homgren's study will be to deepen the understanding of the philosophic, social and political backgrounds of the First Amendment, as well as the ways in which the FirstAmendment is first interpreted by various groups and institutions in American society tday. The research will also serve to gain greater knowledge of the close relationship between freedoms of the press, speech and assembly in 1800 and 1970, and possible changes in interpretations of libertarian concepts which result from new communications technologies.

Impact Statement For Santa Cruz Harbor Is Filed

Colonel J. L. Lammie, San Francisco District Army Engineer, announced that the draft environmental impact statement for periodic maintenance dredging of Santa Cruz Harbor was forwarded to the Council on Environmental Quality on March 21, 1974.

The federal project consits of an existing entrance channel, extending south out of the harbor between two protective jetties authorized under the River & Harbor Act of 1958 and completed between April 1962 and January 1964.

Since 1965, the Santa Cruz Harbor entrance channel has had shoaling problems requiring annual maintenance dredging in order to keep it open.

The work to be accomplished periodically involves dredging the entrance channel 100 ft. wide and approximately 900 ft. long, to a depth of 20 ft., continuing approximately 600 ft. at a depth of 15 ft. The volume of dredged material is estimatedat 90,000 cubic yds. based on 9 years of experience of maintenance dredging.

The work would most likely be performed by floating hydraulic dredge during each period with disposal on the beach in the surf zone east of the east jetty. This beach is part of the state recreation and park system. The beach replenishment by disposal of dredged sand will be accomplished outside of the normal summer recreational season in order to avoid disruption of the beach.

Since the dredging should be performed following the winter storms which wave action would not cause immediate reshoaling of the channel, a two month period from March to May would usually be selected.

The present draft environmental impact statement on Santa Cruz Harbor was prepared after careful review of comments from various Federal, state and local agencies as required by Section 102 of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and the Council on Environmental Quality "Guidelines." This statement is an assessment of the environmental impact of all continuing periodic maintenance dredging at Santa Cruz and will be updated and resubmitted every 3 years. It covers the FY 74 dredging currently under contract and due to be completed by May 15, 1974.

Public comment on the environmental impact of the work may be directed to the San Francisco District Engineer, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, CA 94102, within the next 60 days.

Senator Calls For Troop Withdrawal

Senator Alan Cranston called for the withdrawal of 100,000 of the 159,000 Air Force and ground personnel the U.S. now has in South Korea, Thailand, Japan, the Phillipines and Taiwan.

Testifying before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Cranston urged that the move be accomplished in stages over the next two years.

He said their withdrawal and military deactivation would save "roughly $1 billion annually" in direct manpower expenditures plus indirect future savings of "billions more" in troop support, military construction, maintenance and logistics.

In addition, Cranston said, "the balance of payments savings associated with such a cutback would be roughly $800 million a year".

"A partial withdrawal along the lines I have suggested will not unhinge the world," Cranston told the committee. "But it will help free money that could be far better spent on domestic needs--or simply left unspent which, I suppose, is a new but perhaps a refreshing idea".

He said these substantial cutbacks in overseas spending could have significant benefits in the fight against inflation.

Besides advocating large-scale troop reductions in Asia, Cranston noted that he has "long advocated substantial troop reductions in Europe" and pledged that "I will work closely with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield in support of his efforts to that end".

U.S. overseas troops world-wide now number 570,000.

Cranston pointed out that even after withdrawing 100,000 men from Asia, the U.S. would still have 59,000 air and ground troops remaining there, plus 33,000 men of the Seventh Fleet in Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific, and 14,000 air and ground forces in Guam--106,000 men in all.

Cranston reported that the U.S. currently spends $2.73 billion a year to maintain 159,000 men on or near the Asian mainland: $759 million for 40,000 troops in Thailand, $619 million for 40,000 in Korea, $916 million for 56,000 in Japan and Okinawa, $297 million for 16,000 in the Philippines and $139 million for 7,000 in Taiwan.

"In the immediate wake of World War II, the argument could reasonably be made that protection by U.S. troops would permit our allies to rebuild and recover from the devastation of war," Cranston said. "But stationing U.S. troops abroad in such large numbers was never intended to be permanent."

He said the economic growth of these countries, thanks in large part to U.S. aid makes them better able to support their own defense.

High School Jazz Competition Is Scheduled For June

The Fourth Annual California High School Jazz Band Competition, sponsored by the Monterey Jazz Festival in cooperation with Monterey Peninsula College, is scheduled for Saturday, June 8.

The day-long competition will be held on the Monterey Peninsula College Campus where ten high school bands and a number of smaller jazz ensembles will compete.

The winning band and smaller jazz ensemble will be invited to perform at the Seventeenth Annual Monterey Jazz Festival, set for September 20, 21, 22. They will open the Sunday afternoon Festival concert in a special appearance at 12:30 p.m. At 1:30 p.m. the regularly scheduled Monterey Jazz Festival Sunday afternoon concert will begin. The winning high school band will receive a $500 cash award. The winning jazz ensemble will receive $250.

Additionally, at the June 8 Jazz Band competition, a special all-star band will be chosen from the state's top high school jazz instrumentalists. This all-star band will also be invited to perform at this year's Monterey Jazz Festival. It will appear as part of the regularly scheduled Sunday afternoon concert along with well-known, professional, jazz artists.

As in previous years, the Monterey Jazz Festival will offer grants to outstanding performers on various instruments to attend Summer jazz clinics. Judges for the high school jazz band competition will be well known, professional jazz artists and leading jazz educators.

For information on the Fourth Annual California High School Jazz Band Competition write Don Schamber, High School Competition Chairman, Monterey Jazz Festival, P.O. Box Jazz, Monterey, California 93940.

Trackers Score Double

Work in the Department of Fish and Game's intensive study of the mountain lion in southern Monterey and northern San Luis Obispo counties picked up sharply recently when DFG trackers captured two cougars.

A 100-pound female, which had been accompanied by a kitten, was captured March 23, and the following day trackers caught up with a 125-pound male whose age was estimated at 8 to 10 years.

Age of the female, the first of her sex to be captured in the second phase of the DFG's study to determine lion numbers and develop a management plan was about 6 years.

The lions were the third and fourth to be captured, tagged and released in the area selected for intensive study.

Each was weighed, measured, tattoed and fitted with a numbered tag and radio collar. The collars were equipped with lithium batteries for the first time in the program in an effort to provide longer battery life and better utilization of collars.

Both lions taken previously in the area were fitted with solar-powered radio telemetry collars. Biologists had expected the collars to retain their power longer than the six months they were getting from the previously used units powered with mercury batteries.

But trouble developed with the solar collars, apparently, the DFG said, because the lions spent so much time in dense cover that the collars were not exposed to the sun for periods long enough to recharge solar units.

Fitting the lions with radio collars enables them to be followed from the air and the ground so that their movements may be recorded.

National Guard Helps Easter Seal Society

Volunteers from the California Army National Guard again demonstrate their concern for community service by joining with local Easter Seal Society organizations throughout California in effort to increase public awareness of direct service programs to aid the handicapped.

Guardsmen and women volunteers on their off-duty time are distributing coin collection cannisters, newsletters and literature explaining California Easter Seal services and hosting recreational outings and special events for handicapped youngsters and adults.

According to John R. Mawhinney, president of the Easter Seal Society of California, National Guard volunteers are "assisting in invaluable ways to bring the plight of the handicapped to public attention."

"Long involved in public service community action programs throughout the state, above and beyond their military commitments, Guard personnel play a vital supportive role in their identification with the statewide Easter Seal organization which last year served more than 30,000 handicapped Californians," Mawhinney said.

As citizen-soldiers, members of the California Army National Guard give much of their off-duty time in assisting with Easter Seal Society of California projects, helping local staff members and Easter Seal volunteers.

Major General Glenn C. Ames, California National Guard commander, said that "the Guard is proud to play its part in the continuing struggle to make this a happier world for those who must cope with a handicapping disability. "I am proud of the volunteer role assumed by National Guard men and women in assisting with vital Easter Seal Society programs and services."

This year's annual Easter Seal campaign continues through Easter Sunday but the California Army National Guard is identifying with statewide Easter Seal services on a year-around basis, the first time in its 125-year history that the Guard has undertaken a volunteer program specifically to aid the handicapped.

New McGraw-Hill Building Planned

A major new facility specifically designed to become "part of the landscape" will be constructed on the Monterey Peninsula by CTB/McGraw-Hill, a division of McGraw-Hill Book Company. One of the nation's largest publishers of standardized tests and evaluation services, CTB/-McGraw-Hill will construct the building in Del Monte Research Park, according to Dr. David Evans, general manager.

The firm presently occupies two other structures in the Park. Those two operations will be combined in the new facility, which will be two stories high and will contain 65,800 square feet.

The need for the new building has been increased by accelerated demands for CTB/McGraw-Hill's products and services. On virtually every level of education--from elementary through graduate -- scholars, administrators and the public are seeking reliable measurement of student and school perfor0nce. CTB/McGraw-Hill's standardized tests are nationally recognized for this purpose. The firm's evaluation and guidance services complement the tests and a large computer facility provides scoring and reporting services on test data.

The company has also been a pioneer in designing tests to serve students from a variety of cultural backgrounds. Such designs create an equitable basis for evaluation of the individual student's work, and provide valuable data for curriculum design and improvement.

CTB/McGraw-Hill has been a resident of the Peninsula for thirteen years. That fact, plus its employees' affection and respect for the natural beauty of the Peninsula, led the firm to make the new structure's physical setting a dominant consideration in its design. A basic design objective is to control the scale of the building so that it will maintain the sense of the wooded site that surrounds it, both for passersby and for its regular occupants.

Sabastian J. Bordonaro Associates, architects and planners, plan to locate the new building within its 6.3 acre site in a fashion that will complement the gentle slope and the large oaks and Monterey pines that dominate the scene.

The new building is expected to be completed by late May 1975.

NPC Concert Features Harpist

The Naval Postgraduate School's Friday Evening Concert Series will present a unque performing artist from the Monterey area in its next program. She is Georgia Kelly of Big Sur, who will present a harp recital featuring selections from the works of Debussy, Handel, Mozart and Satie, as well as some of her own arrangements of traditional and contemporary music.

According to the newly elected president of the Concert Series, Lieutenant Commander Julian "Skip" Wright, the concert will be at 8 p.m. On April 19 in Ingersoll Hall on the NPS campus.

Miss Kelly, a musical prodigy, began her formal music education on the piano at the age of three. She fell in love with the harp in elementary school, and studied the instrument in high school and college.

Tickets at $3 each may be purchased at Abinante's Music Store, Monterey, and at the Student Mail Center at the Naval Postgraduate School. To order by mail, send your check to Friday Evening Concert Series, SMC 2463, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Ca., 93940.

Seating in Ingersoll Hall is limited and advanced purchase of tickets is highly recommended. For more information phone 646-2023.

St. Joseph's Mission Helps Those In Need

St. Joseph's Missions, the only Resident-Transient Emergency shelter on the Monterey Peninsula, caters to those who are in sincere need, and although St. Joseph's Director, Brother Christopher White, aspires to accomodate everyone who comes to him for help, the "INN's" present maximun board and care capacity is a total of nine persons. Numberous requests for shelter must be turned away daily for lack of room.

But for those two staff residents, five temporary residents and two transients, St. Joseph's Missions fill a void. All tenants of the "INN" are determined to become self-sufficient again, and for them St. Joselp's is their Avenue.

St. Joselp's provides jobs, shelter, food, Brotherhood, and an atmosphere to encourage productivity. The entire income consists of rental vouchers and donations, so consequently the deficit increases by the month.

One means of extra income is to have a thoroughly successful St. Joseph's Work Experience and Employment Program (S.W.E.E.P.). Workers wash windows and walls, sweep, mop and wax floors, sanitize bathrooms, clean stoves and ovens, even landscape gardens and do heavy yardwork. Unfortunately the "INN" has a shortage of transportation and tools to aid them in their trade.

On April 26th, St. Joseph's will benefit from a basketball game between the KMBY Disc Jockeys and the Active 20/30 Club of the Monterey Peninsula, in Seaside High School gymnasium at 7 p.m. The gym holds 1600 people. The seats are $1.00 for adults, .75 for students and military. Tickets can be had by mailing the pledges to "INN-AS-MUCH", 365 Amador St., Seaside. Call 394-5079 for more information.

Wood Endorses John Harmer

Assemblyman Bob Wood of Monterey County has endorsed the candidacy of Senator John Harmer for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

"I have admired Senator Harmer's honesty and leadership during my four years in the state legislature. Senator Harmer is one of the most knowledgeable and effective legislators we have. I am pleased to endorse John's candidacy and will serve on his campaign committee with a great deal of enthusiasm," concluded Assemblyman Wood.

Wood is Assemblyman from the 34th district which includes the entire county of Monterey. He has been an Assemblyman since 1970 and serves as vice chairman of the Assembly Committee on Enivironmental Quality. He was previously a Monterey County Supervisor and still maintains a successful farming business.

Wester To Open Gymnastic School

Don Wester, local automobile dealer and former sports car racing champion, has announced the creation of a new gymnastics school on the Monterey Peninsula. To be known as Gymnastic, Inc./ Monterey Bay, the school will be located at 590 California Street in Sand City.

The purpose of Gymnastic, Inc. is to develop the potential of those many peninsula youngsters who are interested and involved in this fast-growing, exciting sport. A secondary goal is the establishment of a team consisting of Olympic calibre gymnasts from our area. Wester explained that "my interest in gymnastics started some four years ago when I first saw Cathy Rigby perform. Since then I have been planning such a school on the peninsula, to give our youngsters a chance to excel as Cathy did. Gymnastics is one of the most fundamental sports, and it offers a disciplined training in concentration and coordination that serves well in a youngster's future life."

Wester will be the president of the school and his vice president will be Gordon Maddux, television's "Voice of Gymnastics" on ABC's Wide World of Sports, who brings a tremendous background of competition and teaching into the organization. The other officers are Jack Brown, Secretary-Treasurer and David Silver, Director. The school will open in approximately one month.

Boy Scouts Plan For 1975 Jamboree

Boy Scouts from the Monterey Bay Area Council will join with nearly 2500 young men and their leaders from through-out the United States who will attend the 14th World Jamboree to be held at Lillihammer, Norway, during the summer of 1975.

Plans for this Jamboree are already under way since the logistics of moving the local contingent made up of Scouts from Monterey, San Benito, and Santa Cruz Counties is fantastic. The World Jamboree will be hosted by five Nordic countries -- Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway, and Sweden. The international Event has been named Norjam 75 representing "norden" meaning "north" and "jam" meaning "jamboree".

The Norjam will be located about 120 miles north of Oslo on a site surrounded by mountains and virgin forest. Local Boy Scouts will also spend several days in the homes of Nordic Scouts and take other tours during the 21-day high-adventure experience.

Information about the world jamboree is available from the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, P.O. Box 1967, Salinas, California 93901.

Until May 1, 1974, applications and deposits will be accepted by the Monterey Bay Area Council on a first - come first-served basis, according to Page Gilman, Watsonville, jamboree chairman. After May 1, applications will be accepted on the basis of space available in the Western Region which serves The West Coast Area.

Gilman said that requirements for participation are: to be at least 14 years of age but not 18 prior to the opening of the jamboree on July 29, 1975; active member of a Scout troop (an Explorer must have dual membership in a troop); have advanced at least one progress award in the 12 months prior to July 1, 1975 or be an Eagle Scout; and be physically fit.

Vision Development Important

Poor achievement in school and a lavk of interest in sports and games might be the result of an undetecged vision problem in your child, according to Dr. Gerald J. Easton, newly-elected president of the California Optometric Association. Stressing the importance of good vision to children as part of the association's observance of Save Your Vision Week, the optometrist said that not only school achievement but personality, posture, and adjustment to life are closely involved with vision development.

"Unfortunately four out of ten grade-school children in the United States are visually handicapped for adequate school efficiency and have vision problems interfering with learning," he said. Vision problems are very often found, for example, in children who are deficient readers or slow learners, or hyperactive.

Good vision is basic to a child's success and essential to the development of his full potential, the doctor stressed. Parents and teachers are urged to be alert for symptoms that might indicate some type of vision problem in children. If a child loses his place while reading, avoids close work, has headaches, shows body rigidity while looking at distant objects and does little or no voluntary reading at home, any or all of these symptoms may indicate a vision problem according to the optometrist.

County Official Opposes Meat Labeling Proposal

Monterey County Sealer of Weights and Measures, Daniel R. Smith, said he is adding his voice to the swelling chorus of state and county weights and measures officials throughout the United States who have objected to new meat weight labeling regulations proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Smith said the proposed new rules are based on an old repudiated concept of "net weight when packed." Smith said this concept cannot help but result in losses to consumers who expect to get the weight indicated on the package at point of purchase. Smith explained that for products which lose moisture, the consumer pays for that moisture which has been weighed and labeled at packing time, but has since leaked out of the product and is absorbed in wrappers or packing substances, or is free flowing water in a container.

The California Department of Food and Agriculture has voiced a strong objection to the regulations, and Director C. B. Christensen of the state department has filed an official complaint about the proposal. "I am joining in the protest," Smith said, adding that if others wish to do so also, they should write to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz. His address is Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

In filing his official objection, Christensen declared that "California has always insisted that the consumer should receive the full weight of meat or poultry stamped on the package. Water, wet wrappers, and packing substances are not part of the net weight of meat or poultry, and that's our official state view for anything packed or sold in California," Christensen said.

"True net weight to the purchaser has always been the intent of Congress and is the philosophy guiding our regulations," Christensen said.

This point was substantiated by Smith, who said, "Our weights and measures officials in this county, and all of the California counties, have always pulled off sale those packages which do not meet the California standard at the retail store. We still do this, but on a package-by-package basis rather than a lot-by-lot basis, because of recent Federal Court rulings." Smith noted that the proposed USDA regulations make no provision for any kind of state action.

UPCOMING

Three the Hard Way, a film due for release in late June, features Jim Brown, Fred Williamson, Jim Kelly and Sheila Frazier.

Will Be Source Of Information

Travelers on California's state highways will soon be able to walk up to striking black-and-white information kiosks at highway rodside rests, press a button, and receive a "bundle" of information about close-by restaurants, lodgings, or points of interest.

Carter Industries Inc., a diversified Santa Ana outdoor advertising firm, was selected by the California Highway Commission in Napa today to build the installations, part of a motorist information program at 36 of the California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) rest stops.

The first of the faciliteis will be completed at the Randolph Collier roadside rest near Yreka, by September 1, 1974. The other 35 will be installed at various locations throughout California on Interstate Routes 5, 10, 15, and 80 between then and May 1, 1976.

The cylindrical kiosks, designed to fill the needs of California's twelve million drivers, will all be alike. About 9 feet across, each will contain enough spaces for 160 subscribers whose messages will be presented through simultaneous recorded messages and slide projections selected by the random access, audio visual system. As the messages are displayed, the location of the businesses will be pinpointed on a locator map at the motorist's elbow. Later, if he wishes to, the motorist may make a toll-free call for reservations at the business establishment he chooses.

The stylish exterior of the kiosks, made of tough plastic, will present an easy-to-read map of the area featuring nearby points of interest.
